BIG JESS BOOB NO LONGER

Damon Ranyon Finds Pottawamie Cow-Prodder Has Taken on a Lot of Desired Polish.

By DAMON RANYON.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—We were having a good time at Jess Willard in his workout yesterday when we saw caused our minds to protrude with amazement.

Monday, day of wind and a little rain around the hinges, the Pottawamie cow-prodder is now the most popular man in the city. He was not only a top and foot baller but a champion boxer. He was not only a top and foot baller but a champion boxer. He was not only a top and foot baller but a champion boxer.

Jess Must Be Careful Fears May Get Too Fine

By JESS WILLARD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—After I enjoyed a corking rubdown at the hands of Walter Monahan and Jack Hemple yesterday afternoon at the Pioneer Sporting Club, one of the newspaper boys asked me how I felt.

"Never felt like in my life," I replied, and the best thing about it was that it was the good truth. Many times you hear of a fighter slipping himself on the chest and declaring in loud tones he was never better.

"I feel like a new man," I said, and the best thing about it was that it was the good truth. Many times you hear of a fighter slipping himself on the chest and declaring in loud tones he was never better.

THE HABBITS COLUMN

By JESS WILLARD.

Only two more days now and then the gateway for Miami. It has been a rather long, cold winter for me, and you may believe that I shall welcome the balmy breeze of Florida.

"I feel like a new man," I said, and the best thing about it was that it was the good truth. Many times you hear of a fighter slipping himself on the chest and declaring in loud tones he was never better.

Marty McHale Jams Lid on Make-Up Box

By International News Service.

Marty McHale, who started his big league career with the Red Sox, and who, after a two-year engagement with the Yankees, is again a member of the Boston Americans, writes the AMERICAN YOUTH New York stating he is extremely happy over settling back in his old club.

"I'll be the only spitballer on the Red Sox staff, and I'll make every effort to make good. While I am not exactly 'freakish,' I have only been in the major league for a few years, so I should be classified with the rookies."

"I feel like a new man," I said, and the best thing about it was that it was the good truth. Many times you hear of a fighter slipping himself on the chest and declaring in loud tones he was never better.
